

De Colores!

May God bless you on your journey of faith and reveal Himself to you on your three day experience, as He did to the disciples on the road to Emmaus. May your hearts always burn, as they do now with the fire of God's love. May you light your world with that very same fire. The problem is not the darkness of our world, but that there is so very little light.

May you never forget the love, grace, and forgiveness you learned, felt, and were overwhelmed with. May it flood from your heart, mind, and soul to all you see. May all who see you, see the risen Christ resurrected in your very being. You are quite literally, the only Bible some may get to read.

God has no hands to reach out to the hopeless, but yours. He has no arms but yours to lift the downtrodden. He has no smile, but yours to show joy in this hard world. He has no tears, but yours, to show love and comfort to those who need consolation. In this cold, cold, world, be the very warmth of Christ!

CHRIST IS COUNTING ON YOU!
